Meat From the West.

The high price of meat has led to a supply of enormous quantities of fresh meat from the West, which is now a peculiar feature of the New York market. The business naturally grew out of the operations of the great Western meat-packing houses, which have sought this opportunity to dispose of their choicest pieces at higher prices than could be got for canned meats. When the St. Lou's Beef Canning Company and Libby, McNeil & Libby succeeded after a long contest in the courts in breaking the patents by which it was sought to maintain a monopoly in putting up meat in cans, there was a natural increase in the business, and, as the price of meats alvanced, there were more choice pieces to be disposed of. Armour & Co., of Chicago, kill about 500 cattle a day. The St. Louis Beef Canning Company packed 200,000 animals last year, and sometimes kill 700 in a day. Libby, McNeil & Libby, of Chicago, also do an immense business, and these three firms are sending forward the bulk of the fresh meat that comes to New York. The supply is steady, and several firms in New York make a business of supplying retail cus-tomers with fresh meat killed in Chicago or St. Louis. Not only are choice tenderloins sold in this way, but even inferior cuts are sold at lower rates than meat killed in and near New York.

It is admitted that the Western meats are not of the very finest quality, such as is sold here at fifty to seventy-five cents a pound. But it is claimed that the meat is much better than that of cattle starved and thirsty that are brought to this city alive.

There has been complaint among the Western dealers that the New York butchers have formed a ring to keep out their meat. Mr. Le Fevre V. Styles, of the St. Louis Beef Canning Company, said one day last week: "I had 1.00) pounds of nice beef tenderloins yester-day, nice enough for anybody, and I was glad enough to sell them at sixteen cents a pound. I have no doubt but that this meat is sold at retail for twen-ty or thirty cents a pound. The com-bination against Western meat was so great last winter that they got the prices down to sixteen cents a pound. But we put ours in cold storage, and kept it until we got eighteen cents a pound. which is a high price for us."

The growth of the trade has led to the building of great refrigerators for both storage and transportation, and the cold storage business in large cities is rapidly becoming immense. Mr. Styles says his firm is building a refr gerator that will cost $100,000. Another firm have immense refrigorators where they keep the Western meat ready for daily delivery.

Although the railroad freight for fresh meat carried in refrigerator cars is double that for live cattle, the actual freight of the consumable meat is less. The prospects are that the keen competition of business-men to secure profits from the present exorbitant prices will continue to supply the New York market with increasing quantities of Western meat.—N. Mountaineering as Exercise.

Mountaineering is doubtless excellent exercise for the nervously strong and the muscular, but it is unfortunate that it should be the pastime of the very class of persons least well-fitted for its pursuit. These who lead habitually intellectual and, to a large extent, sedentary lives, incur great peril of injury and accident when they resort to this arduous and altogether exceptional Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever disnot blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rey P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

by. Albans, Vy., Jan., 20, 1880.

Dr. B. J. Kennall & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it; cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better; but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendell's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880. BTROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the arge one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all sliff, and no hunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me its will be very great.

Respectfully yours, Chas. E. Parker.
